

With your signed consent, an audio recording of this interview and all of its relevant metadata will be held in the Dawson Oral History Project Archive. Your interview will be made publicly available to interested researchers for listening and exploring.

The interview might also be used in part or in its entirety for publications, broadcast purposes, documentary productions, exhibitions, and funding applications. According to the Researcher Agreement, all researchers are required to make an attempt to contact you prior to any public usage of your interview in its entirety or in part. In the spirit of the Dawson Oral History Project's commitment to shared authority, you will have the opportunity to modify or refuse any public usage of your recorded interview. This collaborative process has been designed to ensure that the interviewee feels comfortable with the final audio piece that is made public. In the event that you cannot be reached, your interview may be used publicly at the discretion of the DOHP administrators with your best interests in mind. You are free to withdraw your interview from the archive in its entirety, or in part, at any time by contacting the DOHP administrators through the Contact Us link at: dohp.dawsoncollege.qc.ca.
