Consent for Public Use of Audio Recordings
and Metadata of Oral History Interview

The Dawson Oral History Project (DOHP) is a research initiative led by Dawson College students. Deeply valuing everyone’s story, DOHP’s student researchers are committed to recording the multiple experiences and perspectives of Montreal’s diverse residents. Your oral history was recorded as one of those unique and valuable voices.

According to your original signed consent form, any researcher who would like to publicly use your interview, in part or in its entirety, is required to make an attempt to contact you to seek your consent to the proposed usage. It is for this reason that you are now being contacted.

By signing this form, you are indicating that a DOHP researcher has contacted you to present and propose a public usage of your interview. By signing this form, you are stating that you have seen and/or heard the proposed public usage and that you give it your approval.

In the space provided, you may indicate any specific restrictions of use:

If you have any questions or comments, please do not hesitate to contact the DOHP administrators through the Contact Us link at: dohp.dawsoncollege.qc.ca.
